

Research

Partner with our dedicated team to uncover ideas, recommendations, agency needs, and more

Our in-house research department at equivalent Supervision and Pretrial is responsible for conducting Norming, Validation, and Inter-rater Reliability studies in support of your agency and its mission to reduce recidivism. Whether you're looking to validate the instruments your team is currently leveraging or seeking an objective third-party review of your processes and procedures, we can help you successfully find pathways, meet legislative needs, and so much more.

Research Team Features

Decades of experience in a wide range of research studies, including validation, norming, and reliability

Close working relationships between research and our software development team, providing confidence in:

Studies customized to agency specifications

✓ testing assessment reporting accuracy

Agency presentations

✓ evaluating assessment interface within Northpointe Suite Software

Staff expertise in theory, statistical analysis and data science techniques, as well as the development and updates of 4th generation assessment instruments

✓ ensuring your data is received and stored with the highest security measures

With equivalent Supervision and Pretrial, your agency can:

- Rely on a practitioner-led team to help you move forward intentionally and productively
- Stay on the cutting edge of new ideas, practices, and tools within the criminal justice field
- Achieve peace of mind knowing your assessments are externally validated and conform to jurisdiction requirements
- Receive personalized, agency-specific feedback and recommendations
- Validate assessments and screenings as needed and/or mandated

Better understand your pretrial and supervision processes, population trends, assessments, and systems by taking advantage of best-in-class research and validation.